Contents of Volume 1

Editorial by J. B. Sidowski, 1

Printout

Printout by J. B. Sidowski, 45, 94, 129, 162, 197, 237, 281, 329

Proceedings— DECUS Conference

A multi-purpose logic module for behavioral experiments by A. G. Snapper and J. Z. Knapp, 264
On the varieties of computer experience by S. J. Stadler, 267
Can a small dedicated machine find happiness in a company that pioneered time-sharing? by J. Markowitz, 269

Instrumentation & Techniques

Two apparatus assemblies for the study of real movement by C. H. Graham and R. Schlaer, 18
Operant behavior in the great horned owl by K. V. Fite and P. M. Blough, 20
A combination stereotaxic drill press and electrode carrier by A. J. Ray, Jr., and A. A. Raffler, 22
An electrophysiological method for the study of binocular rivalry by W. R. Biersdorf and T. Lawwill, 24
A runway for the fish by A. Potts and M. E. Bitterman, 26
A photoelectric shock scrambler by R. Adamson and L. McNab, 28
PSARP, A programmable signal and response processor by H. v. Doorne and A. F. Sanders, 29
Report of a nonnutritive food substance, palatable to rats by C. Taylor and J. L. Bruning, 32
A note on luminance control in tachistoscopes by M. H. Siegel, 33
An inexpensive silent unlocking device for manipulanda by P. E. Freedman and T. Kamowski, 34
Performance of rats on a discrimination operant alley task discriminated by W. T. Greenough and B. W. Godolphin, 57
Measurement of the body surface physiologic tremor or "microvibration" by A. F. Pacela, 60
The roots of territorial marking in the Mongolian gerbil: A problem of species-common topography by D. D. Thiessen, 70
An improved shocking surface for pigeons and rats by J. J. Walker and M. E. Bitterman, 76
A technique of "spatial" coding to program rapid temporal sequences by H. A. Mackay, 115
An apparatus for use in 2 by 2 game research by A. A. Harrison and C. G. McClintock, 117
N-channel tachistoscopes by C. W. Eriksen, D. L. Schurman, and O. Richter, 119
A simplified technique for conditioning respiratory mouth movements in fish by R. R. Fay and J. R. MacKinnon, 123
Two improvements for the Econo-Cage #110 metabolism unit by R. Boice, 124
Programmed presentation of pure tones of different frequencies using a single oscillator by J. J. B. Ayres, B. Crist, and R. S. Juster, 125
A convective thermal controller for behavioral experiments by T. J. Matthews, 126
A comparison of simulated one-way and shuttle avoidance in an automated apparatus by B. M. Kruger, P. F. Galvani, and J. S. Brown, 143
A photoelectric sound-activated relay by R. Adamson and L. McNab, 147
Apparatus for auditory stimulus sorting by P. D. Bricker, S. C. Johnson, and C. F. Mattke, 148
Simultaneous switching of auditory transients for two-channel presentation by R. T. Tomsic and L. F. Elfner, 149
A simple method of producing discrete subcortical lesions using radio-frequency currents by T. E. LeVere and L. R. Nicholson, 150
The design and operation of an improved olfactometer for behavioral and physiological investigation by H. Stone, G. Pryor, and G. Steinmetz, 153
A simple tachistoscope for student labs by R. O. Rouse and R. M. Tarpy, 156
A device for rapid recording of positioning responses in two dimensions by J. A. Bauer, Jr., G. D. Woods, and R. Held, 157
A dehypernasality trainer by R. B. Yules, J. B. Josephson, and R. A. Chase, 160
A method of producing a three-dimensional cathode ray tube display by W. Simon, 179
What does the ultrasonic activity recording device measure? by R. C. Bolles and G. H. Sanders, 180
Liquid level detector with automatic refill and depletion indicator by D. Krausman, 182
A new device for the application of electrical shock by M. E. T. Swinnen, J. V. Brady, and M. G. Powell, 184
A simple and inexpensive click-free audio switch by A. M. Small, Jr., 185
An automated multi-channel programming, data collection, and printout system for avoidance and stress conditioning of monkeys by R. I. Barensten and J. S. Lockard, 187
A runway for chicks by J. Dutch, 189
Measurement of electroconvulsive shock intensity by R. R. Pagano, 190
A solid-state device for presenting moving shadows by N. M. Weinberger and D. A. Goodman, 192
A technique for chronic recording of systematic arterial blood pressure in the unrestrained rat by L. V. DiCara, B. A. Pappas, and F. Pointner, 221
An ultraflexible microminiature multilead electrode by C. C. Brown and Z. Annau, 224
ECS disruption of avoidance produced by an air blast and tone by C. I. Thompson and L. G. Bieber, 225
A one-trial non-shock passive avoidance task for rats by R. W. Thompson and R. A. Galosy, 227
A portable, audible-interval signal device by T. Weigt, 228
Babies by bar-press: Maternal behavior in the rat by W. E. Wilsoncroft, 229
Bar orientation in operant escape training by G. A. Flint, 231
An inexpensive retraction mechanism by M. G. Grisham, A. H. Wolach, and D. P. Ferraro, 233
Apparatus conceptualization for psychopathological research in monkeys by S. J. Suomi and H. F. Harlow, 247
A simple and inexpensive transducer for quantitative measurements of penile erection during sleep by I. Karacan, 251
An evaluation of carbon dioxide as a short acting anesthetic by

W. R. Sewell, C. J. Long, J. F. McCoy, L. W. Leeming, and M. E. Dulle, 253
A wide range timing circuit with two independent controls by N. T. Welford, 255
Transistorized timer for sensory-behavioral research by T. H. Nilsson, 256
A technique for the construction of discrete dichotic stimulation material by A. J. Yates, P. J. Smith, B. D. Burke, and M. A. Keane, 257
A discontiguous S-R automated primate discrimination apparatus by T. E. LeVere and R. T. Bartus, 259
The effect of pressurized air in establishing discriminative response suppression in stump-tailed macaques by J. Kaplan and C. Rebert, 262
Recording horizontal rotations of head and eyes in spontaneous shifts of gaze by C. Trevarthen and B. Tursky, 291
A titration procedure for generating escape behavior by J. Khalili, M. F. Daley, and C. D. Cheney, 293
Stereotaxic presentation of subcortical aspiration by G. H. Golden, L. D. Middaugh, and J. F. Lubar, 295
Automated system for acoustic research by M. A. Nelson, S. H. Barry, and D. R. Perrott, 297
Monitoring drinking: A method compatible with the recording of electrophysiological phenomena by E. Eisman, 300
Technique for monitoring activity in free-moving animals by E. Eisman, 301
The effect of forced choice on color discrimination by M. H. Siegel, 303
Facial expressions: An objective method in the quantitative evaluation of emotional change by L. Rubenstein, 305
A radioactive source of exponentially distributed interevent intervals with electronically controlled rate and origin parameters by J. N. Cronholm, 307
Control of treadmill exercice of rats with hypothalamic stimulation by M. J. Gerben, 309

Methods & Designs

Partial analysis of high-way factorial designs by N. H. Anderson, 2
A methodological study of auditory lateralization by L. F. Elfner and R. T. Tomsic, 7
Bias due to individual differences in yoked control designs by H. D. Kimmel and F. R. Terrant, 11
Free association, free recall, and stimulated recall compared by E. A. Bilodeau and P. W. Fox, 14
The use of strain rank orders in assessing equivalence of techniques by G. E. McClearn, 49
On assessing verbal stimulus hierarchies by C. A. Rogers, Jr., 51
GSR amplitude instead of GSR magnitude: Caveat emptor! by H. D. Kimmel, 54
Toward a complete analysis of GSR data by W. F. Prokasy, 99
Studies of reversible perspective: A methodological review by J. R. Price, 102
Paired comparison scaling of reaction potential in two different experiments on habituation by H. D. Kimmel, C. Boice, and B. T. Leckart, 107
A major modification of the Bousfield and Bousfield (1966) measure of category clustering by R. L. Hudson and J. E. Dunn, 110
Recall and anticipation methods in probabilistic associative learning by J. F. Voss, 111
Protein-binding assays for adrenocorticoids by R. E. Bowman and R. F. De Luna, 135
A measure of interpersonal dominance by P. D. Knott and B. A. Drost, 139
A note on methods of indexing associative relatedness by P. E. Johnson and R. O. Collier, Jr., 140
On the acoustic analysis of primate vocalizations by P. Lieberman, 169
The effects of response bias in two-alternative forced-choice discrimination matrices by C. M. Holloway, 175
Some referents and measures of nonverbal behavior by A. Mehrabian, 203
A test of sex differences in instrumental appetitive learning by rats by M. H. Marx, 208
A measure of pronunciability of CVC trigrams by C. F. Nodine and J. V. Hardt, 210
Advantages of recall over anticipation methods in verbal learning by W. F. Battig, 217
Not-quite-random assignments by D. Mainland, 245
A note on psychophysical measures by M. H. Siegel, 289

Computer Technology

"Basic black" in computer interfaces for psychological research by W. R. Uttal, 35
The research potential of a computer-based cathode-ray tube display by M. S. Mayzner, 41
A computer-compatible technique for recording binary events in real time by J. R. Platt and P. C. Senkowski, 79
On timing events in computer-controlled experiments by J. Markowitz and R. S. Nickerson, 82
An on-line computer in a visual perception laboratory by R. N. Haber, 86
A hardware random number generator for use with computer control of probabilistic contingencies by J. R. Millenson and G. D. Sullivan, 194
A computer-controlled system for training and testing primates by S. L. Moise, Jr., and L. E. Jarrard, 234
Audio tape storage of experimental data: An application to tachistoscopic research with children by R. Lentz and M. M. Haith, 273
Controlling experiments with a general-purpose time-sharing system by L. R. Huesmann, 276
A computer running several psychological laboratories by F. Restle and T. V. Brown, 312
Integrated circuit random foreperiod device and digital interval timer by J. S. Sobolewski and W. H. Payne, 318
PSYCHOL: A computer language for experimentation by R. S. McLean, 323
